Berkeley's Overall Mission Statement

Our mission is to provide quality service to our diverse community; promote an accessible, safe, healthy, environmentally sound and culturally rich city; initiate innovative solutions; embrace respectful democratic participation; respond quickly and effectively to neighborhood and commercial concerns, and do so in a fiscally sound manner.

DRAFT - Adopt a Spot Mission Statement and Goals

The City of Berkeley Adopt A Spot volunteer program is intended to provide residents and groups with a wide variety of opportunities to help maintain and improve our urban habitat, both natural and built. This program gives citizens many options to partner with city staff to engage with their public spaces, to increase urban biodiversity and habitat, promote sustainability, build community partnerships, and create a healthier environment.

This program is intended to provide individuals and groups with a means to help keep Berkeley's environment clean, healthy, and beautiful. It empowers residents to be more directly involved with their community, and take pride in what volunteers can accomplish. Our goal is to facilitate the identification of areas that are well suited to citizen involvement for maintaining and improving them. The program will also assist in creating spaces that meet community needs.

Adopt-a-Spot Concurrent Meeting

March 3, 2020

Initial Findings of Research into Volunteer Coordination Peer Programs

Topic	Summary
Length of commitment	From 6 months to 4 years. 1 or 2 yrs most common. Some cities require a minimum frequency (e.g. 4x/year).
Number of programs	From 1 to 16, or more. Common programs=_____. Unusual=_____.
Who Runs Program	It varies. Public Works, Parks & Rec, a local non-profit, Solid Waste Mgmt, Real Estate Division, etc.
Forms	Some offer fillable-online, others are print-and-mail. Applications are the most common but some also offer Maintenance Guides, Safety Rules, Waiver, or a Plant List. Some online ability to request supplies. A few cities have a checklist outlining the required steps (San Francisco Street Parks).
Training	A variety of ways, e.g., online videos or in-person (one-off or biennial)
Clickable maps	Many cities have these. User-friendly for a variety of programs, e.g. Adopt-a-Drain, Adopt-a-Spot (litter), Adopt-a-Median, etc. Color-coding indicates if spot is 'available' or 'adopted' and the name of adopter may be posted.
Picking a Spot	Sometimes defined by the city while other cities allow communities to choose. "Each Street Park is unique because it is created to meet the needs of the community that develops it." (San Francisco) "We have found that cleanups that have been brought to us from the community organically are generally more successful and better attended." (Muncie, IN).
Reporting	Some cities require cleanups to be reported. A few have online reporting tools, or even a smart phone app.
Signage	Many cities post a sign when a spot is 'available' or 'adopted', it's frequently customized (lists the name of the person/organization) and usually free-of-charge.
Recognition	Some cities have an annual party to celebrate the volunteers. One city offers an "Oscars" award, another picks an outstanding volunteer each year, and another gives monthly awards for a garden or big trees.
Media	Some cities include online videos of volunteers describing the program, why they love it, and encouraging others to join
Native Plants	Are strongly encouraged or required in many cities and plant lists are provided. "As a city-wide initiative, we are working towards all native planting in our Adopt-A-Spot locations." (Columbia, MO)
